Managed SIEM

Managed Security Information and Event Management (Managed SIEM) is crucial in cybersecurity because it collects, analyses, and correlates log data from various sources within your IT infrastructure, such as firewalls, servers, and applications, identifying and responding to potential security threats in real time.

Given the investment needed in technology, process and people, this is a service best delivered by an external expert with the resources and know-how to deal with vast amounts of data in real-time.

Managed SIEM is a powerful option for you if you are seeking to enhance your cybersecurity posture by combining advanced technology with expert human oversight to deliver robust protection against a wide range of security threats.

A managed SIEM delivers:

- Fully managed 24/7 threat detection and real-time monitoring.
- Experienced security analysts available 24/7.
- Various techniques, including machine learning, behavioural analysis, and threat intelligence feeds, to detect potential security incidents.
- Log ingestion from any source.
- Comprehensive and proven run books.
- Rapid incident response.
- Advanced security alerts.
- Effective reporting.
- Compliance assurance.

A managed SIEM service helps detect cyber threats and improve your cyber security stance.

Managed SIEM Benefits

Proven technical expertise and resources

You will enjoy access to in-depth expertise and resources that you may not have in-house, including skilled security analysts and advanced threat detection technologies.

Improved cost efficiency

Implementing and maintaining your own SIEM system internally can be costly and resource intensive. Managed SIEM services offer you a more cost-effective solution by spreading costs across multiple clients.

24/7 continuous monitoring

With a managed SIEM service, you benefit from 24/7 monitoring and threat detection, reducing the risk of undetected breaches. The managed SIEM will also help eliminate alert fatigue by automating much of the work.

Immense scalability

Managed SIEM services can easily scale with your growth and changing needs, adjusting to increased data volumes and the complexity of your IT environment.

You can focus on what you do best

Outsourcing your SIEM operations allows you to focus on your core business activities while leaving complex security tasks to proven experts with years of experience and know-how.

Rely on managed SIEM to detect and respond to your security threats.

Leverage advanced technology with expert human oversight to remain protected.
